Nearly 5,000 people are expected to attend the Seventh Congressional District Republican rally at Clifton Friday afternoon when Charles Curtis, vice-presidential candidate, will deliver his first speech in Ohio during the present presidential campaign.

The rally, which is being staged under the joint auspices of the Clark and Green County Republican Executive Committees, will be held in a large chauntauqua tent, capable of seating about 3,000 persons. The meeting will be held in the tent, rain or shine.

The Curtis party is scheduled to arrive on the Republican candidate's special train from Columbus at Cedarville early in the afternoon. There the party will be met by a caravan of automobiles escorted to Clifton, where the rally will officially begin at 1:30 o'clock.

The Curtis party will come directly from Columbus, where the vice-presidential candidate is scheduled to talk at noon.

State Senator L. T. Marshall, Xenia, chairman of the Greene County Republican Executive Committee, who is arranging for the rally, announced complete details for the program Wednesday.

The rally will be opened by Sherman Deaton, Urbana, Republican state central committee chairman. Congressman Charles Brand, Urbana, will be the presiding chair-

The first political address will be delivered by Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican gubernatorial candidate* after which Curtis will be introduced by Senator Fess.

Among other Republican candidates on the state, judicial and district tickets who will attend are Judge Frank W. Gearty, candidate for supreme court judge and Roscoe G. Hornbeck, London candidate for appellate court judge in the Second Appellate District. All other candidates will be introduced to the audience from the platform but will not deliver speeches.

An effort is being made by committee in charge of the rally to arrange for an all-day affair with motor parties in attendance from all parts of the state. Plans have been made for the serving of lunch at Clifton by women of the Clifton Presbyterian Church at noon.

Cincinnati is sending one of the largest motor parties that will be present. Each of the nine cities in the Seventh District will send auto caravans and Sen. Marshall was advised Tuesday that Paulding County, 300 miles distant, expects to send a motorcade.

At least four brass bands are engaged for the rally in addition to the famous Republic of the Glee Club of Columbus, the colored Glee Clubs of Xenia and the Xenia Glee Club. The Glee Club of Xenia are listed among the aggregations of the Glee Clubs of America for Marshall points out that plenty of space will be available for parking automobiles. A level field has been obtained and is capable of accommodating hundreds of cars and declares that there should be no hesitancy in attending the rally because there will be a lack of room in which to park machines.

SMITH SHIFTS HOPE TO EAST AS WEST FAILS

Deep-Rooted Party Feeling May Help
Hoover.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Except here in Chicago where Governor Smith achieved a great personal triumph, his western campaign has been a disappointment to many of his admirers, who are now placing their hope for his success entirely upon his battle on the Atlantic seaboard. Massachusetts, New Jersey and Maryland may almost be said to hold the fate of Smith in their keeping. If he should carry them it is conceivable he would win; without at least two of them it is difficult to see how he can. This is the judgment of most impartial observers of this unique campaign.

Chicago still is echoing the cheers and enthusiasm which Smith aroused here a few days ago. Republicans concede him the city. It is normally Republican but it is wet and it is for Smith. Other localities may "high-tail" him for his East Side diction. They may think him too indifferent to the official formalities to represent the nation in the White House.

Chicago does not. Leaving Chicago, this enthusiasm rapidly diminishes. Few believe he can carry Illinois due to the strong downstate Republican vote. Former Governor Lowden has said nothing to soften the sting of his criticism of the Republican party's hostility to the McNary-Haugen bill, uttered when he withdrew his name at the Kansas City convention. His friends are apathetic toward Hoover personally but for political reasons they need to carry the state and they expect to do so although they would take more delight in doing it for another candidate, preferably Lowden.

The surrounding states which the United Press correspondent has just traversed through, except Wisconsin and Nebraska, little likelihood of going for Smith. Innate Republicanism, religion and prohibition are counted upon to save them for Hoover. Both Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa are apparently for Hoover. Nebraska is somewhat more doubtful and if Senator Norris, as is expected, declares emphatically for Smith this week, it may turn the state Democratic. That is the opinion one leading Republican official in Nebraska confided to the United Press.

Wisconsin is more favorable to Smith. The state is so close that veteran observers hesitate to make predictions. One told the United Press he would give the state to Smith without reservation except for the fact that Wisconsin has a fundamentally Republican background. These farm states have been disappointed—angry is not too strong a word in some cases—at the Republican party's handling of the farm problem. Coolidge's two vetoes of the McNary-Haugen bill with the failure to present any real substitute, have left these states in a hostile mood. Yet as between Smith and Hoover, most of them appear to be leaning toward Hoover as the less objectionable candidate. This is largely due to the women. Republicans would have doubts about carrying most of these states for Hoover except for the women.

The fact—admitted regretfully by some of Smith's warmest friends—is that the graduate of New York's sidewalk has misjudged the psychology of the middle west. The style of campaign which has been tremendously successful in New York seems to have failed west of the Alleghenies. The middle west has not taken to Smith's style. It has not accepted the brown derby. Smith's radio campaign has been less successful than Hoover's according to the element one gets everywhere. Yet with all of these weaknesses Smith will run far ahead of any Democrats since Wilson in this section.

PROSECUTOR URGES REFUSAL OF PARDON

CANTON, Oct. 24.—Ben Rudner, instead of being pardoned, should be held in his penitentiary for the full term of his life.

This was the recommendation made today by Prosecutor Henry W. Hartner, Jr., of Stark County, to the clemency board at Columbus after Gov. Vic Donahey turned over to the state board an application for Rudner's pardon.

Rudner was convicted as the "payoff" man in the conspiracy of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News publisher.

Harter, back today from a week-end vacation, asked the board that he be notified and given an opportunity to appear personally in case there is any possibility that Rudner might be freed.

DONAHEY ENDORSES DEMOCRATIC SLATE HE INFORMS WOMEN

Message Disperses Doubt
On Stand Of Governor

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—The widespread belief that Governor Vic Donahey was opposed to the Democratic presidential nominee, was dispelled today with a flat declaration in which the governor said he "was for the Democratic ticket from top to bottom."

The governor's stand was made known in a message read before the Women's Smith-For-President Club at a banquet and meeting here last night.

"I am sorry I am unable to be present," the executive wrote, "and I would have accepted your invitation but for the illness of Mrs. Donahey."

"Please tell the women for me that I am a Democrat and am for the ticket from top to bottom."

The governor, heretofore, has not voiced an unqualified endorsement of Governor Smith and his declaration was greeted with tumultuous applause.

Claude Meeker, member of the Democratic state central committee, lauding the governor's statement, said "Mr. Donahey, in endorsing Smith, proved he was no Achilles suiking in a tent."

The governor—thrice elected chief executive of the state—mentioned prominently for the Democratic presidential or vice-presidential nomination at the national convention in Houston.

He has withheld official endorsement of Governor Smith since the convention and political observers were of the opinion that Donahey looked with some disfavor upon the Smith candidacy.

The governor's message was read by Mrs. Charles D. Cussins, president of the club.

Before adjourning the club took occasion to ensure the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the president of which, yesterday, characterized Governor Smith as "a dripping, sopping Tammany wet."

Mrs. Luella Peabody of Oberlin, vice chairman of the Democratic state central committee, presented a resolution denouncing the W. C. T. U. for what club members termed "permitting Republican campaign literature to be distributed from a booth near the W. C. T. U. convention registration table."

Mrs. Peabody also addressed the meeting and attacked a statement attributed to Republican headquarters, that Myers Y. Cooper, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, "has sold 20,000 homes and never foreclosed a mortgage."

"He didn't have to," Mrs. Peabody said. "He sold them on the land contract basis and retained title until every cent was paid."

Former state chairman Thomas E. Dye of Urbana, spoke substituting for Rev. John G. Royland of New York who was unable to be present.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—Merger of the E. I. Dupont de Nemours & Co., with the Grasse Chemical Co., of Cleveland, will depend upon the action of Grasse stockholders at their meeting November 10.

VOTING MACHINERY IS BOLSTERED

"GO TO BED" SAYS MARS LADY

Inter-Planetary Communication Fails; "No More Of That Foolishness," Says Wife

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Dr. Mansfield Robinson may attempt to communicate with Mars again, but he had better not try it while his wife is around.

Mrs. Robinson, interviewed in her home at Roydon today, after the failure of her husband's attempt to establish radio communication with our sister planet, made it clear that "there will be no more of that foolishness in this house."

Shortly after Oonauru, the six-foot Martian maiden with whom Robinson was attempting to communicate, sent him a telephatic message advising him to go to bed, Mrs. Robinson handed out some advice.

"I don't know anything about this Mars affair," she told newspapermen. "I have refused to have the experiments conducted in this house while I remain in it. I don't know whether anyone encouraged my husband, but there will be no more of that foolishness in this house."

Oonauru, the "girl with the blue ears and the sweet face" who, according to Robinson, guided his ethereal body on his last trip to Mars, sent condolences after informing Robinson that neither of the radio messages which he sent out from the Rugby radio station had reached Mars.

Robinson said he received the following telephatic messages from Oonauru:

"Mars received neither message. Do not attempt to use the Rugby station again, but make the next attempt in America. Now go home to bed, but do not be downhearted. You have done enough for today."

Eight minutes after Robinson's two messages—"Love to Mars from Earth" and "God is love"—went crackling across the ether, Prof. A. M. Low, well known scientist, received an undeciphered message in telephatic code over his radio.

Low had invited a United Press correspondent and several friends to pick up his home in an attempt to pick up an answer to Robinson's messages. The party gathered in front of the fire, told ghost stories and drank toast to the planet Mars.

Suddenly dots and dashes came in over the radio.

"It was a very mysterious message," Low said. "It is hardly likely that it could have been from Mars, however, I must confess. I do not know who sent it. One striking thing is that it was not an ordinary Morse message, but a long series of undecipherable dots and dashes. For example, there were eleven dots followed by three dashes."

The small staff that was at the Central Telegraph paid little attention to Robinson as his first message started on its 35,000,000-mile journey to Mars at 2:19 a. m.

Post office officials said it was merely a routine message, for which they were collecting thirty-six cents a word. The belief or disbelief of the post office in the feasibility of communicating with Mars was not involved, they said.

Robinson's first message "Love to Mars from Earth" was punched on tape and handed to an operator who inserted it in the automatic transmitter which operates by relay with the Rugby loud speaker.

A nearby table set an operator whose radio was linked up with the St. Albans receiving station. He was prepared to copy everything that came in over the specified wave length.

Robinson made elaborate preparations for the attempt to get his love note through to Oonauru. Inviting United Press correspondents to dinner, he explained that they must eat a special meal so they would be in a receptive frame of mind. The dinner consisted of grapefruit, vegetable salad, Welsh rarebit and lime juice.

At dinner Robinson revealed that he had been aided in his experiments by Suzanne Harris, an American medium. He said Miss Harris emitted an ectoplasm in the afternoon. That ectoplasm, Robinson said, raised two trumpets in the room in which they were working. The Martians then blew on the trumpets, he said.

Robinson was not discouraged at the failure of Oonauru to send something back by radio.

"Nothing conclusive can be drawn from the experiment," he said, "until we hear from stations in other parts of the world."

AUTHORIZES ADDED HELP TO ELIMINATE ELECTION FAILURE

Boards Ordered To Increase Booths If Necessary

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—Emergency election instructions were sent out late yesterday by Secretary of State Brown, to the eighty-eight county boards of elections, authorizing them to take steps to prevent the state's voting machinery from breaking down on Nov. 6 under the burden of what is expected to be the greatest total vote in the history of the state.

Stretching the law in order to insure that every voter who wishes to do so, will be able to vote, Brown's instructions empower the boards to provide for additional election officials and additional facilities for handling the vote in precincts where the ordinary machinery will not be sufficient to take care of the electors.

The boards were authorized to make a survey on the precincts in their respective counties, and, wherever necessary, to provide added voting places and booths.

Where the required six officials in a precinct will not be able to handle the situation, because of the heavy vote expected, Brown authorized appointment of deputy clerks of the county boards to assist them.

Brown also called attention of the boards to the fact that all voters waiting at the polling places at 6:30 o'clock p. m. on election day have the right to vote and must be supplied with ballots, regardless of the time required for them to cast their vote after the closing time of the voting place.

"The first and most important duty of the boards of elections is to be absolutely certain that all qualified voters are given an opportunity to vote," he said.

ROBINSON DRIVES FOR FARMER VOTES

SIoux CITY, Ia., Oct. 24.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for president, left here today for the Dakotas and Minnesota in continuance of this effort to cut off the great farm belt vote from the Republicans. Another drive for Iowa vote will be made Saturday at Des Moines.

This is the "wheat week" of the Robinson campaign. Farm relief and the Democratic charge that Hoover and the Republicans have been unkind to the wheat farmers for eight years can be counted upon as the principal burden of his campaign song from now on.

RACELAND WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION

GREENUP, Ky., Oct. 24.—Property of the Tri-State Fair and Racing Association at Raceland, Ky., will be sold at public auction in November, Greenup County court officials said here today.

The auction is said to follow foreclosure of a $200,000 mortgage held by the S. and S. Lyric Co., New York, and placing of a $95,000 claim by the state of Kentucky.

Various other claims against the association were said to total $25,000.

SENATOR NORRIS WILL ENDORSE GOVERNOR SMITH CANDIDACY

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Senator George W. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, will endorse the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith in a speech at Omaha Saturday night, Frederick C. Howe, executive secretary of the progressive league for Alfred E. Smith announced today.

Norris has refused to endorse Herbert Hoover, his party's candidate, but until now he had not indicated his attitude toward Smith. He has been campaigning for progressive candidates for the senate and congress in the northwest, avoiding discussion of national issues.

Because of his influence in his own state and in the northwest, Senator Norris' declaration of his support of Governor Smith is expected to be an outstanding development of the campaign.

The progressive league said that a national radio hook-up had been arranged to broadcast Norris' speech over the Columbia channel. Norris is scheduled to speak from 9 to 10 p. m. Eastern time.

The western itinerary probably will be announced today or tomorrow. Tentative plans call for departure from here next Tuesday, on a route through western Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky to St. Louis, where Hoover will speak in the Coliseum, probably November 2. He expects to stop at Cumberland, Maryland, for a brief address to stir Republican workers in that area, and at several points in West Virginia and Kentucky, the latter high among the states generally listed as "doubtful."

PROHIBITION ISSUE IS ONLY SHAM BATTLE HUGHES CLAIMS

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Oct. 24.—

After calling the prohibition issue "a sham battle" here last night, Charles Evans Hughes today was on his way to Chicago where he will deliver another campaign message for the Republican ticket to-night.

It was the first speech of the campaign made by the former secretary of state and supreme court justice, who himself ran for the presidency in 1916.

"Smith is trying to gain the presidency by getting enough wet votes in the north and east to add to the essential dry votes of the south," Hughes said in dismissing the wet and dry controversy.

The question of choosing between the two candidates should be dealt with "in the American spirit," he said. "I have no patience with bigotry and confess I am intolerant of intolerance. We have troubles enough in this country without introducing into our political discussions of differences of religious faith."

Hughes praised Hoover as a capable administrator, qualified in every way to discharge the duties of the president. Hughes in the past has spoken favorably of Smith as an administrator and has been quoted extensively by Democratic speakers.

Charles Smith, of New York, president of the American Association for Advancement of Atheism, is shown behind bars of Little Rock, Ark., jail, after he had refused to pay fine of $24.60 imposed as a result of his speeches against proposed anti-evolution law.

COURT BARS LORAIN FROM ERECTION OF MEMORIAL BRIDGE

Commissioners Are Enjoined From Issuing Bonds

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—The state supreme court today denied Lorain county commissioners a rehearing on a court of appeals decision enjoining them from building the proposed Lorain Memorial bridge. The court also denied the commissioners a review.

By the decision of the court, the commissioners have lost their last legal move in their efforts to obtain authority to issue $2,199,000, which would be necessary to cover the cost of the bridge. The bridge was to extend over Black River between Colorado Avenue and Broadway in the city of Lorain.

The original action was started in the Lorain County common pleas court by Joseph Finegold, Lorain taxpayer, who sought but was denied a permanent injunction against the county commissioners. Finegold took his case to the court of appeals which sustained him and reversed the common pleas court.

Motion for a new trial was denied the commissioners by the court of appeals and the case was appealed to the state supreme court last May. The supreme court sustained the court of appeals. As a matter of form the commissioners filed an application for a rehearing and it was this application which the court denied today.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will speak for a half hour over the same network, augmented by nine stations on the Pacific coast and two in Washington, D. C.

votes tonight in a speech at
field, Mass., early this morning, and will travel steadily most of the day. His only official activity along the way will be an occasional back platform appearance.

Curtis will go into the middle west tomorrow, and finish his campaign for the vice-presidency. The tentative schedule for his wind-up follows:

Coshocton and Akron, O., Oct. 25.
Columbus, Clifton and Mt. Vernon, O., Oct. 26.
Cleveland, O., and Detroit, Mich., Oct. 27.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 31.
Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 1.
Moberly, Mo., Nov. 2.
Wichita, Kas., Nov. 3.
Topeka, Kas., Nov. 5.

Curtis again stressed the tariff issue in his speech last night at the Colonial Theater in Pittsfield. He charged that Gov. Alfred E. Smith has changed his ideas on the protective tariff and said the Democratic party cannot safely be entrusted with the responsibility of protecting American industry from foreign competition.

Despite cold, drizzling rain, the hall where the nominee spoke was filled to capacity, and an overflow audience all but filled another large building.

POLITICS ON THE RADIO

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith's campaign address in Boston will be broadcast from the Boston arena tonight from 9 to 10 p. m. Eastern time, over a nationwide network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Due to the radio arrangements made to broadcast the Democratic nominee's speech, the broadcast of the Flinders, of American Liberty, dinner, at which Lord Melchett, Charles W. Schwab and Nicholas Murray Butler are to speak, has been postponed until 10 p. m.

A chain of middlewestern stations will broadcast an address by Charles Evans Hughes, associate justice of the supreme court, from Chicago, at 8 p. m. Central time. Hughes will speak for an hour in behalf of the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for president in 1924, will broadcast a sixty-minute talk from Louisville over a network of five southern stations, beginning at 7 p. m. Central time.

WARREN FOUNDRY DESTROYED BY FIRE

WARREN, O., Oct. 24.—Buildings of the Aetna Standard Engineering and Foundry Co., destroyed by fire here last night will be rebuilt as soon as insurance adjustments have been completed. Myron I. Arms, president, said today.

The fire caused a loss estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Work will continue in the machine shop, the only building saved, the necessary foundry work being done at Aetna's plant in Elywood City.

The flames started in a small building close to the main foundry when hot metal sparks scattered, some of them igniting filings and oil dust.

Within a few minutes the small building was in flames and the fire had spread to the main foundry structure.

The Union Steel Co., building nearby caught fire twice, but men from the plant turned firemen and prevented any spread.

Plan Hallowe'en Dance To Liquidate Debt

AS an auspicious opening to the fall and winter social season and sponsored for a worthy cause, is the dance and card party to be entertained by the Xenia Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs, at the Masonic Temple, Wednesday evening, October 31.

The Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs have generously taken over the deficit of the community auditorium in Shawnee Park, which was subscribed to by former and present Xenians before and during the homecoming in August.

To help meet this fund, the clubs are sponsoring the party, which is expected to be one of the outstanding of the season. It will be a masque affair but costume is not obligatory and left to the decision of the individual guests.

The Kiwanis committee includes: Messrs. J. D. Adair, Karl R. Babb, E. A. Kern, C. A. Bone and C. A. Kelble and the Rotary: Schuyler McClellan, Arthur V. Miller, Purl Cox, Fred Anderson and John G. Baldwin.

Tickets are now on sale and can be obtained from any member of the five organizations. The music will be furnished by the George Bowser Orchestra, well known Springfield organization. Refreshments will be served and a program of gala novelties is being arranged.

BEREAN CLASS HAS MASQUERADE PARTY

Every type of grotesque attire was represented among the sixty guests who attended the masquerade party given by the Berean Class, First Reformed Church, Tuesday evening in the church parlors.

Games and Hallowe'en amusements furnished the entertainment and the children of the members presented a short program. A refreshment course of Hallowe'en delicacies was served. The parlors were colorfully decorated for the affair and added to the spirit of the occasion.

Miss Eleanor Alexander was hostess Tuesday evening when teachers of McKinley, Orient Hill and Spring Hill Schools honored Miss Harriet McCarty, who has resigned her position with the Xenia City Schools to accept a place in Oakwood School, Dayton. A dinner party was held at Miss Alexander's home with covers placed for twenty-four guests.

Richland Community Club will hold a masquerade party at the school, Friday evening, October 26. There will be a prize awarded to the best costumed person and a prize also to the most comically dressed guest. Each family is to bring a pie and sandwiches. The public is invited.

STOP BAD BREATH People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

Just about this time I started on the treatment of Konjola and this medicine worked wonders on my system. In an amazing short time I noticed a new feeling of health over my entire system. I wouldn't think of missing a dose and soon had completed the entire treatment. Now I want to tell everyone that I have received permanent relief from my health troubles. I am able to eat all kinds of food without the least after effect. The gas bloating and dizzy spells are ended. It is a pleasure to sit down to a meal because I know that I will receive the proper nourishment. Konjola also regulated my kidneys and banished the unhealthy color and sediment. In every way I have been benefited and now sleep just like a child. It is a pleasure to endorse such a medicine as Konjola.

still suffering from these ailments, but every day more and more of these same sufferers are turning to Konjola for relief. Hundreds of statements have been published, many from this city, in which is told how Konjola restored a new state of health. Just a few days ago Mr. Ernest Kersey, 4 South Miller Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., this city, where he is explaining the merits of Konjola:

"I will always recommend Konjola to anyone who is suffering," said Mr. Kersey, "because this medicine ended all trace of stomach and kidney trouble for me."

"For over two years my stomach and kidneys had caused me intense suffering. My kidneys were in a very bad state and each action showed traces of sugar and a yellowish-brown sediment. Due to the disordered condition of my stomach every bite of food formed gas that pressed against my heart. Quite often I became so dizzy that I fell to the floor. One day while in Sabina, Ohio, I fell twice to the street. My appetite left me and I had no desire to eat because of the suffering afterward. For more than six years I did not enjoy a complete night's sleep and always felt worn-out. You can better realize my condition when I say that I spent two years in Leeburg for treatment. Even then I never knew what health was and thought I would go through the rest of my life in this condition."

XENIAN RECEIVES AIRMAIL CARRIED BY GRAF ZEPPELIN

Walter Lippman, 449 N. King St., engineer at the Hoover and Allison Co., and a native of Germany, has the distinction of being the only Xenian to receive mail recently brought from Europe to the United States by the Graf Zeppelin.

Mr. Lippman received two letters and a post card from his family, living near Dresden, Germany. The mail was postmarked from Friedrichshafen, Germany, from where the trans-Atlantic flight started last October 19, and was delivered to the Xenian October 21, cutting two days off the usual time necessary to receive mail from Germany.

The letters bore German air mail stamps portraying the Graf Zeppelin circling the globe. The stamps each cost four Reichsmarks, which in American money amounts to about $1.

Mr. Lippman declared that he expects to send letters back to his home in Germany on the Graf Zeppelin when the huge ship makes its return trip across the ocean.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Ella W. Hoag, associate editor of the Christian Science Journal and Christian Science Sentinel, died at her home yesterday.

She had been identified with the mother church for more than ten years and had been a leader in church activities during part of that period.

GETS FIRST VOTE NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Governor Alfred E. Smith has received his first vote for president and it was the vote of a Republican. It was cast in California. Hoover's home state, but it will be counted in Ohio. It was an absentee ballot sent in by George H. Pinar, of Cleveland, living temporarily in San Jose, Cal.

CHURCH WOMAN DIES BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Ella W. Hoag, associate editor of the Christian Science Journal and Christian Science Sentinel, died at her home yesterday.

SAYS PROHIBITION CANDIDATE NEEDED COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24.—Dr. Franklin W. Stanton of Franklin, O., candidate for governor on the prohibition ticket, speaking at a prohibition rally here last night, favored:

1. For native born American citizens, $1,000 fine and two years imprisonment for the first violation of the nation's liquor laws, and $5,000 fine and from ten to twenty years imprisonment for the second violation.

2. For the foreign born violators of the same laws a heavy fine for the first offense and deportation for the second offense.

"Absolute enforcement of the prohibition laws can not come," Dr. Stanton said, "until the prohibition party elects a president."

"Sentiment in regard to prohibition is divided in each of the two major political parties, and enforcement is impossible with either of the parties in power."

OPEN GOLF TOURNEY STARTS IN DAYTON DAYTON, O., Oct. 24.—Ranking golfers of the state set out over the Miami Valley Country Club course today for the first round of 72 holes medal play in the state open golf championship tournament.

More than 100 professionals and amateurs—representing the best the state has to offer in golfdom—were seeking the title won for the past two years by Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, a pro.

Par of the course has never been made in amateur play and the course this year is even more difficult than in previous years.

The unofficial course record is 68, shot by Alex Campbell during a practice round.

Entries today included George Sargent, Columbus pro; Jock Collins, Dayton; Julius Blanton, Toledo; Leonard Scumtee, Lima; Charles Lormes, Columbus; Lloyd Gullickson, Cleveland, and Francis Marzoff, Columbus.

Ideal weather prevailed early started last October 19, and was delivered to the Xenian October 21, cutting two days off the usual time necessary to receive mail from Germany.

The letters bore German air mail stamps portraying the Graf Zeppelin circling the globe. The stamps each cost four Reichsmarks, which in American money amounts to about $1.

Mr. Lippman declared that he expects to send letters back to his home in Germany on the Graf Zeppelin when the huge ship makes its return trip across the ocean.

GOES TO SOURCE OF STOMACH AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Xenia Resident Describes How New Konjola Restored His Health After Short Treatment

Thousands of men and women in Xenia have been relieved of many of the worst forms of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel miseries through the use of this celebrated new Konjola medicine, and thousands of others in this city are still suffering from these ailments, but every day more and more of these same sufferers are turning to Konjola for relief. Hundreds of statements have been published in many from this city, in which is told how Konjola restored a new state of health. Just a few days ago Mr. Ernest Kersey, 4 South Miller Avenue, Xenia, made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., this city, where he is explaining the merits of Konjola:

"I will always recommend Konjola to anyone who is suffering," said Mr. Kersey, "because this medicine ended all trace of stomach and kidney trouble for me."

"For over two years my stomach and kidneys had caused me intense suffering. My kidneys were in a very bad state and each action showed traces of sugar and a yellowish-brown sediment. Due to the disordered condition of my stomach every bite of food formed gas that pressed against my heart. Quite often I became so dizzy that I fell to the floor. One day while in Sabina, Ohio, I fell twice to the street. My appetite left me and I had no desire to eat because of the suffering afterward. For more than six years I did not enjoy a complete night's sleep and always felt worn-out. You can better realize my condition when I say that I spent two years in Leeburg for treatment. Even then I never knew what health was and thought I would go through the rest of my life in this condition."

"Just about this time I started on the treatment of Konjola and this medicine worked wonders on my system. In an amazing short time I noticed a new feeling of health over my entire system. I wouldn't think of missing a dose and soon had completed the entire treatment. Now I want to tell everyone that I have received permanent relief from all my health troubles. I am able to eat all kinds of food without the least after effect. The gas bloating and dizzy spells are ended. It is a pleasure to sit down to a meal because I know that I will receive the proper nourishment. Konjola also regulated my kidneys and banished the unhealthy color and sediment. In every way I have been benefited and now sleep just like a child. It is a pleasure to endorse such a medicine as Konjola."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with attendant bad breath. CASCARA IS YOUR
Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation."

Perfect regularity is possible to-day, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD IN US—Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us: for thou also hast wrought all our works in us.—Isa. 26:12.

WINNING GRATITUDE OF NATIONS

In no way has Herbert Hoover revealed himself more completely as the great humanitarian of this generation than in his attitude toward children. This attitude cannot be better expressed than in his own words, which appeared more than eight years ago in the "Saturday Evening Post."

"I believe the attitude of a nation toward child welfare will soon become the test of its civilization. If we are to have a healthy people and a healthy government, we must start with healthy children. If we are to have an advancing civilization, if we are to have a united social state, if we are to have an equality of opportunity in the United States, we must have universal education. If we are to have real Americanization, we must add the flux of our common schools to our vaunted melting pot."

This is more than an expression of Hoover's belief; it is an expression of the dominant trait of his character, which led him away from an opportunity to earn a gigantic fortune into the trying and peculiarly thankless task of feeding the children of Belgium when the wolf of hunger followed marching enemies.

Hoover's work for children has not been national. No borders have constrained it. The gratitude of whole populations has been given to him because he did for children that which, because of the very human love within him, he could not refuse to do.

It is the great heart of Hoover which endears him to the American people, and particularly to American mothers. They know that their children are safe in a land whose government is administered by a man who altered the entire road of his life to carry food to little ones who were hungry.

Roger Babson, statistician extraordinary, has brought new encouragement to the inventive genius of the country. He has made 70 suggestions of things which ought to be invented. They are all important. Each one of them, he believes, would bring its inventor a million dollars.

A few of them may give some idea of the range of Mr. Babson's imagination: the regulation of height and other physical characteristics, electric waves, self-finding golf balls, international peace, the changing of birch into mahogany, the numbering of cities, electric music, fountain pens that write in three colors and a return to Sunday observance.

No distinction is made regarding the desirability of these inventions and we are left with the uneasy feeling that they are all considered of equal value. Both the man who establishes international peace and the man who perfects a self-finding golf ball are held up as entitled to a million-dollar reward. The man who finds a method of regulating his height or he who makes a fountain pen write in three colors is equally a hero in the mind of the statistician.

Mr. Babson's world will be a highly regulated place in which to live. We are not sure that we would altogether approve of it. But the point of his address to the National Business conference is that there are still 70 opportunities to become a millionaire. Here is a challenge to youth.

WHAT DO YOU READ?

If we haven't read a book or two on evolution, it is better not to express an opinion on evolution. If we are short on information procured by the direct method, better stay in the listening class. If we haven't time to read we are leading a badly disordered life. A man or woman who finds no time to read in all the 24 hours of the day is hardly finding life worth living. And his system of management is terrible.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

A series of articles has been seen in the newspapers recently under the title: "What's the Matter With Marriage?"

Perhaps the answer is, "Nothing." The matter is with some people. It might be said, more seriously, that what is often called the matter with marriage is really a problem of training, of discipline, of racial inheritance. Marriage is an idea and an ideal. It is an idea and an ideal worth trying to realize.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

There is an unwieldiness and an unworkableness in large bodies. The president's cabinet should not be much larger. The fact is, nevertheless, that the importance of the enormous educational projects in this country is such that the matter of a department of education ought to receive the most earnest consideration. If the department of the navy and war could be united, as has been wisely suggested, a secretary of education could take his place in the cabinet without increasing the total number.

ALIBIS

Most pleas of "I'm too busy" are simply alibis for not doing what one does not want to do. Wouldn't we be happier all around if we adopted the custom of saying, "I do not want to do this thing because I do not believe in it," or "I do not care to," or "I am too lazy" rather than say what we really do not mean?

Have you ever noticed that few of us are ever too busy to do what we really want to do?

SUSPICION

Do you remember that old proverb which says "there is nothing which makes a man suspect more than to know little"? The passing of gossip, the bandying about of baseless rumor, is like sifting cyanide into the air. It is like dealing carelessly in deadly poison. It kills reputation, it destroys character, it works the most tragic injustice on the innocent.

NEW YORK. — "Get a thrill," yells a lone one-horse cab driver in Times Square at mid-night, "ride in a horse cab!" But few ride.

Chief money successes, among plays on Broadway are "The Front Page," "The High Road," "Strange Interlude," "Diamond Lil," "Marching," and "The Command Performance," among the non-musicals. Musical money leaders are "Show Boat," "White Scandals," "The New Moon," Earl Carroll's "Vanities," "The Three Musketeers," "Rain or Shine," "Billie," "Good Boy" and "Rosalie."

New York remains one of the few cities in America where one may see plays in German. "Wenn die Liebe erwacht" (When Love Awakens), an opera by Kuennecke, is the opening production at the Yorkville Casino on east Eighty-sixth street.

Lovers phoning from New York to Germany need plenty of cash. The over seas conversation costs $50.25 for three minutes. It would be easy indeed, for several moments of loving talk to cost $200.

Talk among the wonder of the age. The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company voluntarily cut the fare of a ten-cent trolley line to five cents and extended the run of the cars. It's a six months' experiment to see whether the line can be made to pay.

Latest New York rumor is that Governor Al Smith, if defeated for the presidency, will become the chief executive of a new, large bank, or head of an auto concern merger.

One girl's sweetheart came over in the Zep. She's Dora Stoeckle, of East Orange, N. J., erstwhile of Deutschland. He's Jacob Meyer, of the crew.

Coming of the giant, airship made a small fortune for "hot dog" vendors out Jersey way.

August Olsen is in town. Not that such news means much. But Olsen is a sailor of 45 years' service. And he is in town for a new suit of clothes. For he has suffered his first shipwreck in all those years, and his possessions went down with the vessel. The Wellington, a four-masted schooner, which sprung a leak 25 miles off Newport News, Va., while en route to Cuba with coal. The crew tried to save the boat by standing at the pumps for hours, but the fight was a losing one, therefore, when a steamer hove into view, they set fire to their craft to prevent other vessels from crashing into it.

Jack Conway, of Variety, theatrical weekly, is dead, following a heart attack in Bermuda. Perhaps Conway will become the subject of a book. Only 42, he began as a street car conductor, then played semi-pro baseball, then the vaudeville stage for one day and finally wound up on Variety as a critic of burlesque, vaudeville and the drama.

He said he was uneducated. He therefore, adopted a jargon all his own, his phrases soon being heard from one end of Broadway to the other. The American Mercury quoted him as high-brow periodical. Finally, a large publishing firm requested him to write a volume of Conwayese. Then he died.

Here are some of the phrases credited to Conway: "Scram! (Get out); 'Meet the headach' (Meet the wife); 'That's the pay off' (meaning the same thing); 'Dempsey will knock him stiffer than a dress shirt' ('palooka' (third rate); 'S. A.' (sex appeal); 'That's a lotta baloney' (borrowed by Governor Al Smith); 'peasants' (ordinary folk); 'high hats' (other kind); 'It's a pushover' (success); 'clicked' (same); 'Laugh that off' and 'belly laughs'.

Kellygrams

Apartment houses have probably revolutionized more lines of business than is generally realized. For one thing, they have created a demand for smaller articles of all kinds than were formerly manufactured. Food products come in smaller packages than they would if it were not for the small storage space in flats. Even tea packages were smaller. People do not ordinarily buy tea in large bundles, anyhow; but those who cook in a wee kitchenette are likely to pick the smallest package they see in the grocery, whether it's tea or potatoes.

Likewise, furniture, bathtubs—all have been influenced by the fact that a certain proportion of the people who will use them dwell in apartment houses. Old-fashioned, full-sized double beds are coming to be almost unknown in the larger cities. The average New Yorker believes that a three-quarter bed is as wide as they are made.

TIES THAT BLIND

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — Plenty of senators vote dry whose personal sympathies are very wet. However, believe me, they keep quiet as mice about their sympathies.

All except one—Senator Coleman Livingston Blaise's personal sympathies are sopping wet. South Carolina, his state, requires him to vote dry. He does it, but it nearly kills him, and he keeps no quieter about it than a steam calliope.

Whenever a wet-and-dry question comes up in the senate, Cole Blaise makes a speech, explaining his vote.

It will be a dry vote, he states. The explanation is that it has to be, or Cole could not continue to be a senator—which is candid, but not so bad. If the South Carolina solon did not always take occasions to tell what he thinks about prohibition, too, he would be a dry vote, he states.

The explanation is that it has to be, or Cole could not continue to be a senator—which is candid, but not so bad. If the South Carolina solon did not always take occasions to tell what he thinks about prohibition, too, he would be a dry vote, he states.

Even though he does vote dry, it is a senate marvel that he has the nerve to say the things he says.

Regardless of the fact he knuckles under to the inevitable, how can he abuse, so lavishly, the pet political principle of a practically bone-dry section of the country—without making two-thirds of its voters hopping mad?

A few nights ago the truth came out—it does make the dry voters hopping mad. At all events, they were mad enough to send a shower of eggs in Cole's direction.

The senator is stumping Dixie for Al Smith, it seems.

It was at Augusta, on the South Carolina-Georgia line, that he lit into the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. Maybe he had done so elsewhere also, but it was at Augusta that he brought down the barrage.

They say the eggs missed him, but they were well meant.

Needless to relate — If you know Cole in the pawning, he gave to prohibition after that broke all records. The madder his audience gets, the better the senator likes it—and this audience evidently was as mad as a hornet.

But the queer part of it is — After having all those eggs chucked at him, as a wet, Cole unquestionably will come back here to the capital next winter and vote dry, as usual.

On the other hand, we have Senator Blaise, with so intense a loathing for prohibition that he will get up on a platform in a dry community, and risk being spat upon with hen fruit, to denounce it—but in Washington he classes as one of the standbys of the anti-rum forces.

Peel, core and stew good tart apples and sweeten to taste. Put into a pie plate lined with crust, grate a little cinnamon over it and one teaspoon butter in little pieces. Bake until crust is done. Cover with meringue made of whites of three eggs beaten stiff with two tablespoons powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.

Parsley Potatoes—Bowl four peeled and quartered potatoes until tender, but not soft. Drain and break into smaller pieces. Fry a sliced onion until yellow. Add potatoes, two tablespoons chopped parsley, salt, pepper and one tablespoon vinegar or cream. Fry until brown, stirring frequently.

are also important. She must do without shining and glittering ornaments, because they not only draw attention to her size, but make her appear even larger.

A few suggestions are as follows: To shorten long limbs, use set-in sleeves and breaks at the wrist such as deep cuffs or the Captain Kidd ruffles that are so popular this year. Vertical or spiral lines will lengthen the figure as a whole. Horizontal lines give a shorter effect. Long necks will look better if they are circled with several strands of pearls or choker beads or if scrabs are worn. Short necks require long necklaces. Stout people must avoid stiff fabrics such as taffeta, materials with large patterns and all over lace. George, crepe de chine, handkerchief linen and heavy silk crepes are excellent choices.

For the young girl who is big, you must remember to select gowns that do not sacrifice youthfulness to the cultivation of a slender appearance. Dark colors are a happy choice for her. Navy blue in dull finished fabric will always be good, and the youthful note may be introduced through bright trimmings, such as red, rose and light blue and cream lace. The very tall girl must be careful to avoid "cute" styles, tailored models, and skillful drapings. Flare and circular skirts are most likely to be becoming. She must avoid all extremes in her costume.

Diet and Health

DAILY SYSTEMATIC EXERCISES ADVOCATED FOR YOUNG BABIES

The Latest Gymnasium.

A great many of our ills are due to wrong diet. And a great many are due to stagnation, we might say, of the body fluids, due to lack of sufficient vigorous circulation. As I have told you many times, when your voluntary muscles are not put to daily use and are flabby, your heart muscles are just as flabby. The babies, even under a year old, are improved by daily systematic exercise, but it is true, I am reminded of this by reading in the Hygeia the news that a gymnasium for babies has been introduced in Berlin recently by a former officer in the German army. At five months of age the babies can join.

The babies, dressed in ducky little bathing suits, are laid on flannel-covered tables and put through their exercises by trained assistants, one for each baby. Major Neumann-Neurodd, director of the gymnasium, first experimented with his own children. He believes that the exercises will cure or prevent many defects of the spine and that they are also good for children who develop slowly as a result of nervous disease or injury at birth.

In Graz, Austria, Prof. Hamburger has also introduced a series of exercises for babies. He compared the babies who were given the exercises with other babies—having the same care in other respects—who received no exercise, and found that the exercised babies were better developed all around—had broader shoulders and better chests and backs. Their muscles being so much sturdier, they were more dextrous and had fewer accidents and took falls with laughter, indicating health nervous systems. The babies were not nearly so apt to take cold. The little fatties reduced their fat and gained good muscles and the little thinies gained fat and good muscles.

book "The Baby's Daily Exercises," says it is better for the baby to have regular systematic exercise directed towards developing all the muscles of the body, rather than to rely on the hit-and-miss method of general play, and it should be given five to ten minutes daily. He noticed the same results with the babies in his clinical and private practice that Mr. Hamburger and Major Neumann-Neurodd did.

Systematic exercises should be continued all through childhood. While the children get a lot of exercise in play, there will be muscles they won't exercise and systematic exercise will bring these into play. One of the chief values of the systematic exercise is that it establishes a habit that will be carried throughout life and which will prevent a lot of troubles.

We have a list of books on the general care and feeding of children which can be obtained by observing column rules.

Living and Loving

WHAT IS A GOOD SPORT? IS A "GOOD FELLOW" ONE?

What is a good sport? Is it the person who just what everyone else does whether he approves of it or not—just to be "a good sport"? Or is it rather the one who meets life generally with laughter and good cheer, but dares defy the opinion of his fellows if it goes against his principles? A girl suggests the question in the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have a friend that is very dear to me. Last night we were out with some fellows who got her drunk. We are both 16 years of age. I told her to be careful and the boys called me a 'flat tire.' I then made up my mind not to say another word. She apologized to me, and I would like to have her, advice as to whether I should keep up my friendship. My girl friend would like to know whether it is wrong to take a drink, when on a party, when everyone else does, and to be a sport with the rest of them. How should you act to get a nice boy friend?"

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have a habit to go out with such company, it may be best to drop her, Bubbles, although I am strong for being loyal to one's friends, no matter what they do. They usually need one more when one is in trouble than when all is fair sailing. But I want to say to all boys and girls—leave liquor alone. It can do you no good and may do you harm, and to have it in your possession is against the laws of your country. I say this, knowing that many excellent people who drink moderately will not agree. The boys who spoiled your evening by their actions were the "flat tires," not you, Bubbles. And if you are at a party where everyone is drinking, stick to your guns, be a real "good sport." Be pleasant and jolly about it, but let it be known you are a T. A.—total abstainer. Believe me, dear, real people will respect you far more than if you follow the crowd, and I am sure you will get a "nice" boy friend before long.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been interested in a young man for several months and at last, the other night, he asked me for a date. We went out in his car with another couple and because they started petting, I imagine, he followed suit. Now Mrs. Lee, I really don't approve of that sort of thing, but I really hated to say anything in front of them. When he left he didn't ask when he could see me again, so, Mrs. Lee, do you think it would be advisable to tell him that I am not like the rest of the girls and think the affair of the other night quite unnecessary? Because I really do want him to respect me. He doesn't go with any other girls and I like him so much. Please, Mrs. Lee, answer as quickly as possible before it is too late.

"BLUE EYES." It is just possible, you know that that was not at all the reason for his not asking to see you again. It is so much better, however, not to allow familiarity to make one so liable to regret it. It makes one feel cheap, and if one can't respect oneself, how can others respect one? If you get a chance, tell him you are sorry you let him "pet," as you don't really like that sort of thing.

Peter's Adventure

HOW SACRED IBIS GOT HIS NAME

"Red-Feathers was right. For some reason the brothers did not understand they were the subject of the Two-Legs' chant. "Waving their palm branches and pointing to the birds now circling curiously above their uplifted heads, the people sang a song of praise to the winged messengers—the heralds whom sent them of the rising of the waters.

Because they had seen White-Coat first he should be called the Sacred Ibis and they would worship him and their children and their children's children should do honor to his name forever.

"His brother they would call the Scarlet Ibis because of the glowing color of his coat. Now the people could go to their homes happy. They need not worry for another year. There would be plenty to eat in the land of Egypt. Surely there was much to be thankful for.

When the Two-Legs had finished their thanksgiving, the joyous crowd started back to their homes, laughing and dancing as they went, but the birds did not watch them for long. White-Coat had caught sight of something that made him give a shrill scream of surprise. "They were right. They were right. The waters are rising!"

screamed he. "Look closely, Red-Feathers, and you will see that they are slowly but surely creeping up the banks. If this keeps up at this rate before long the river will have overflowed its banks. There will be water everywhere and then what a feast we shall have.

"Do you know, brother, rather like the name the Two-Legs gave me. Sacred Ibis Sounds quite distinguished, don't you think? So I am to be worshipped, and? Fine. I give these people credit for a lot of sense I always knew that I was a wonderful bird, but I must say I never expected anything like this."

"Humph! I hope you will not burst with pride over being called sacred," remarked Red-Feathers with a chuckle. "You can be worshipped all you want to. What good does that do you? I had far rather people knew me for my ability. I hope you heard of my admiring my coat, brother."

"The two birds were so pleased with their new names that they could think of nothing else. But they nearly came to blows arguing about whose was the prettiest. And all the time the water was rising higher and higher."

And his system of management is terrible.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

A series of articles has been seen in the newspapers recently under the title: "What's the Matter With Marriage?" Perhaps the answer is, "Nothing." The matter is with some people. It might be said, more seriously, that what is often called the matter with marriage is really a problem of training, of discipline, of racial inheritance. Marriage is an idea and an ideal. It is an idea and an ideal worth trying to realize.

A NEW DEPARTMENT

There is an unwieldiness and an unworkableness in large bodies. The president's cabinet should not be much larger. The fact is, nevertheless, that the importance of the enormous educational projects in this country is such that the matter of a department of education ought to receive the most earnest consideration. If the department of the navy and war could be united, as has been wisely suggested, a secretary of education could take his place in the cabinet without increasing the total number.

Most pleas of "I'm too busy" are simply alibis for not doing what one does not want to do. Wouldn't we be happier all around if we adopted the custom of saying, "I do not want to do this thing because I do not believe in it," or "I do not care to," or "I am too lazy" rather than say what we really do not mean?

Have you ever noticed that few of us are ever too busy to do what we really want to do?

SUSPICION

Do you remember that old proverb which says "there is nothing which makes a man suspect more than to know little"? The passing of gossip, the bandying about of baseless rumor, is like sifting cyanide into the air. It is like dealing carelessly in deadly poison. It kills reputation, it destroys character, it works the most tragic injustice on the innocent.

New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK. — "Get a thrill," yells a lone one-horse cab driver in Times Square at mid-night, "ride in a horse cab!" But few ride.

Chief money successes, among plays on Broadway are "The Front Page," "The High Road," "Strange Interlude," "Diamond Lil," "Marching," and "The Command Performance," among the non-musicals. Musical money leaders are "Show Boat," "White Scandals," "The New Moon," Earl Carroll's "Vanities," "The Three Musketeers," "Rain or Shine," "Billie," "Good Boy" and "Rosalie."

New York remains one of the few cities in America where one may see plays in German. "Wenn die Liebe erwacht" (When Love Awakens), an operetta by Kuennecke, is the opening production at the Yorkville Casino on east Eighty-sixth street.

Lovers phoning from New York to Germany need plenty of cash. The over seas conversation costs $50.25 for three minutes. It would be easy indeed, for several moments of loving talk to cost $200.

Talk among the wonder of the age! The Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit company voluntarily cut the fare of a ten-cent trolley line to five cents and extended the run of the cars. It's a six months' experiment to see whether the line can be made to pay.

Latest New York rumor is that Governor Al Smith, if defeated for the presidency, will become the chief executive of a new, large bank, or head of an auto concern merger.

One girl's sweetheart came over in the Zep. She's Dora Stoeckle, of East Orange, N. J., erstwhile of Deutschland. He's Jacob Meyer, of the crew.

Coming of the giant airship made a small fortune for "hot dog" vendors out Jersey way.

August Olsen is in town. Not that such news means much. But Olsen is a sailor of 45 years' service. And he is in town for a new suit of clothes. For he has suffered his first shipwreck in all those years, and his possessions went down with the vessel, the Wellington, a four-masted schooner, which sprung a leak 25 miles off Newport News, Va., while en route to Cuba with coal. The crew tried to save the boat by standing at the pumps for hours, but the fight was a losing one. Therefore, when a steamer hove into view, they set fire to their craft to prevent other vessels from crashing into it.

Jack Conway, of Variety, theatrical weekly, is dead, following a heart attack in Bermuda. Perhaps Conway will become the subject of a book. Only 42, he began as a street car conductor, then played semi-pro baseball, tried the vaudeville stage for one day and finally wound up on Variety as a critic of burlesque, vaudeville and the drama.

He said he was undrugged. He therefore, adopted a jargon all his own, his phrases soon being heard from one end of Broadway to the other. The American Mercury and other high-brow periodicals quoted him. Finally, a large publishing firm requested him to write a volume of Conwayses. Then he died.

Here are some of the phrases credited to Conway: "Scratch (Get out); 'Meet the headache' (Meet the wife); 'That's the payoff' (meaning the same thing); 'Dempsey will knock him stiffer than a dress shirt'; 'palooka' (third rate); 'S. A.' (sex appeal); 'That's a lotta baloney' (borrowed by Governor Al Smith); 'peasants' (ordinary folk); 'high hats' (other kind); 'It's a pushover' (success); 'clicked' (same); 'Laugh that off,' and 'belly laughs.'

Apartment houses have probably revolutionized more lines of business than is generally realized. For one thing, they have created a demand for smaller articles of all kinds than were formerly manufactured. Food products come in smaller packages than they would if it were not for the small storage space in flats. Even tea packages were smaller. People do not ordinarily buy tea in large bundles, anyhow, but those who cook in a wee kitchenette are likely to pick the smallest package they see in the grocery, whether it's tea or potatoes. Likewise, cooking utensils, furniture, bathtubs—all have been influenced by the fact that a certain proportion of the people who will use them dwell in apartment houses. Old-fashioned, full-sized double beds are coming to be almost unknown in the larger cities. The average New Yorker believes that a three-quarter bed is as wide as they are made.

Today's Recipes

Veal Birds—Cut three-quarters of a pound of veal steak into pieces two by four inches. Spread with bread stuffing and roll. Fasten with toothpicks. Cover with flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sear in a baking dish and half cover with milk. Cover pan and bake in moderate oven for one hour.

TIES THAT BLIND

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — Plenty of senators vote dry whose personal sympathies are very wet. However, believe me, they keep quiet as mice about their sympathies.

All except one— Senator Coleman Livingston Blease's personal sympathies are sopping wet. South Carolina, his state, requires him to vote dry. He does it, but it nearly kills him, and he keeps no quieter about it than a steam callopie.

Whenever a wet-and-dry question comes up in the senate, Cole Blease makes a speech, explaining his vote. The madder it will be a dry vote, he states.

The explanation is that it has to be, or Cole could not continue to be a senator—which is candid, but not so bad. If the South Carolina solon did not allow take occasions to tell what he thinks about prohibition, too.

It will be a dry vote, he states. "Asinine," "outrages," "idiotic" are among his mildest adjectives. Senator Blease has a big vocabulary and he uses every bit of it on this subject. His last available hard word exhausted, he votes—dry.

Even though he does vote dry, it is a senate marvel that he has the nerve to say the things he says.

Regardless of the fact he knuckles under to the inevitable, how can he abuse, so lavishly, the net political principle of a practically bone-dry section of the country — without making two-thirds of its voters hopping mad?

A few nights ago the truth came out—it does make the dry voters hopping mad.

At all events, they were mad

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Costume for Tynes and Weights Before I start this, I am going to tell you again that the best thing I can recommend for over or underweights, is a strict regime of diet and exercise. However, it is as a first aid that I am offering the following suggestions as to costume, so as to either modify too gracious curves, or to build up a suggestion of a figure where there is none.

To begin with, the too thin girl, unless she is careful, runs the risk of making herself look ridiculous unless she adapts herself to the straight lined dress and figure. Some fashion must always be avoided. One of them is a tendency to cut down at the shoulders. The slender girl needs some foundation garments if her clothes are too look like anything at all. Unless she has a slip and a properly fitted corset, the straight lined dress which are in vogue today are going to look as though they were hung on a pole, and incidentally, while we are talking about the straight lined dresses, let me suggest that she avoid them. Flowing lines, uneven hems, circular skirts, bloused backs, peasant sleeves, in fact any style that gives width and fullness to any part of her body, are going to be much more effective than the tailored effects. Drop shoulders are splendid, whereas fitted shoulders are inclined to make her look too narrow chested. Bertha collars, wide pleated trills around a round neck, a high stand-up collar with the points falling open at the front, are all excellent. For her color scheme, let me suggest that the slender woman avoid vivid or harsh effects. The soft, iridescent tints are lovely on her. Pearls grays with a faint hint of rose or blue or orchid are lovely and most becoming to her. Burettes of this type can wear all the autumnal tints of gold and russet and brown, very misty blues, lavender and the pastels that are built around the basic color, yellow.

The stout woman should choose her gowns with careful attention to line. Coats, hats and frocks must all be carefully planned to simulate slimmness and height. Groups of tucks, always vertical, "V" shaped neck lines, long, narrow vests, long draperies, judiciously placed, will all achieve the desired results. She must always remember to avoid satins and metallic cloths. Dull finished fabrics will give the illusion of slimmness. Dark colors

Apple Meringue Pie
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Peel, core and stew good tart apples and sweeten to taste. Put into a pie plate lined with crust, grate a little cinnamon over it and one teaspoon butter in little pieces. Bake until crust is done. Cover with meringue made of the whites of three eggs beaten stiff with two tablespoons powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.

Parsley Potatoes—Boil four peeled and quartered potatoes until-tender, but not soft. Drain and break into smaller pieces. Fry a sliced onion until yellow. Add potatoes, two tablespoons chopped parsley, salt, pepper and one tablespoon vinegar or cream. Fry until brown, stirring frequently.

are also important. She must do without shining and glittering ornaments, because they not only draw attention to her size, but make her appear even larger.

A few suggestions are as follows: To shorten long arms, use set-in sleeves and breaks at the wrist such as deep cuffs or the Captain Kidd ruffles that are so popular this year. Vertical or spiral lines will lengthen the figure as a whole. Horizontal lines give a shorter effect. Long necks will look better if they are circled with several strands of pearls or choker beads or if scarfs are worn. Short necks require long necklaces. Stout people must avoid stiff fabrics such as taffeta, materials with large patterns and all over lace. George, etc., dull finished satin, voile, crepe de chine, handkerchief linen and heavy silk crepe are excellent choices.

For the young girl who is big, you must remember to select gowns that do not sacrifice youthfulness to the cultivation of a slender appearance. Dark colors are a happy choice for her. Navy blue in dull finished fabric will always be good, and the youthful note may be introduced through bright trimmings, such as red, rose and light blue and cream lace. The very tall girl must be careful to avoid "cute" clothes. She must go in for simple styles, tailored models, and skillful drapings. Flare and circular skirts are most likely to be becoming. She must avoid all extremes in her costume.

Diet and Health

The Latest Gymnasium.

A great many of our ill babies are due to wrong diet. And a great many are due to stagnation, we might say, of the body fluids, due to lack of sufficient exercise so they are not kept in vigorous circulation. As I have told you many times, when your voluntary muscles are not put to daily use and are flabby, your heart muscles are just as flabby. It seems absurd that active babies, even under a year old, are improved by daily systematic exercise, but it is true. I am reminded of this by reading in the Hygeia the news that a gymnasium for babies has been introduced in Berlin recently by a former officer in the German army. At five months of age the babies can join.

The babies, dressed in ducky little bathing suits, are laid on flannel-covered tables and put through their exercises by trained assistants, one for each baby. Major Neumann-Neurodd, director of the gymnasium, first experimented with his own children. He believes that the exercises will cure or prevent many defects of the spine and that they are also good for children who develop slowly as a result of nervous disease or injury at birth.

In Graz, Austria, Prof. Hamburger has also introduced a series of exercises for babies. He compared the babies who were given the exercises with other babies—having the same care in other respects—who received no exercise, and found that the exercised babies were better developed all around—had broader shoulders and better chests and backs. The muscles being so much sturdier, they were more dextrous and had fewer accidents and took falls with laughter, indicating health nervous systems. The babies were not nearly so apt to take cold. The little fatties reduced their fat and gained good muscles and the little thinners gained fat and good muscles.

book "The Baby's Daily Exercises," says it is better for the baby to have regular systematic exercise directed towards developing all the muscles of the body, rather than to rely on the hit-and-miss method of general play, and it should be given five to ten minutes daily. He noticed the same results with the babies in his clinical and private practice that Mr. Hamburger and Major Neumann-Neurodd did.

Systematic exercises should be continued all through childhood. While the children get a lot of exercise in play, there will be muscles they won't exercise and systematic exercise will bring these into play. One of the chief values of the systematic exercise is that it establishes a habit that will be carried throughout life and which will prevent a lot of troubles.

We have a list of books on the general care and feeding of children which can be obtained by observing column rules.

We have an article on the subject of the anemias which will tell you more about them, and their diets.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

WHAT IS A GOOD SPORT? IS A "GOOD FELLOW" ONE?

What is a good sport? Is it the person who does just what everyone else does whether he approves of it or not—just to be "a good sport"? Or is it rather the one who meets life generally with laughter and good cheer, but dares defy the opinion of his fellows if it goes against his principles? A girl suggests the question in the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have a girl friend that is very dear to me. Last night we were out with some fellows who got her drunk. We had both 15 years of age. I told her to be careful and the boys called me a 'flat tire.' I then made up my mind not to say another word. She apologized to me, and I would like to have your advice as to whether I should keep up our friendship. My girl friend would like to know whether it is wrong to take drink, when on a party, when everyone else does, and to be a sport with the rest of them. How should you act to get a nice boy friend?"

"BUBBLES." If the girl friend makes it a habit to go out with such company, it may be best to drop her. Bubbles, answer me quickly, for being loyal to one's friends, no matter what they do. They usually need one more when one is in trouble than when all is fair sailing. But I want to say to all boys and girls—leave liquor alone. It can do you no good, and may do you harm, and to have it in your possession is against the law. I say this knowing that many excellent people who drink moderately will not agree. The boys who spoiled your evening by their actions were the "flat tires," not you, Bubbles. And if you are at a party where everyone is drinking, stick to your guns, be a real "good sport." Be pleasant and jolly about it, but let it be known you are a T. A.—the total abstainer. Believe me, dear people will respect you far more than if you follow the crowd, and I am sure you will get a "nice" boy friend before long.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have been interested in a young man for several months and at last, the other night, he asked me for a date. We went out in his car with another couple and because they started petting, I imagine, he followed suit. Now Mrs. Lee, I really don't approve of that sort of thing, but I really hated to say anything in front of them. When he left he didn't ask when he could see me again, so Mrs. Lee, do you think it would be advisable to tell him that I am not like the rest of the girls and think the affair of the other night quite unnecessary? Because I really do want him to respect me. He doesn't go with any other girls and I like him so much. Please, Mrs. Lee, answer me quickly as possible before it is too late.

"BLUE EYES." It is just possible, you know that that was not at all the reason for his not asking to see you again. It is so much better, however, not to allow familiarity. One is so liable to regret it. It makes one feel cheap, and if one can't respect oneself, how can others respect one? If you get a chance, tell him you are sorry you let him "pet," as you don't really like that sort of thing.

"Red-Feathers" was right. For some reason the brothers did not understand they were the subject of the Two-Legs' chant. "Waving their palm branches and pointing to the birds now circling curiously above their uplifted heads, the people sang a song of praise to the winged messengers—the hermits whom the great God of the River had sent them of the rising of the waters.

Because they had seen White-Cat first he should be called the Sacred Ibis and they would worship him and their children and their children's children should do honor to his name forever. "His brother they would call the Scarlet Ibis because of the glowing color of his coat. Now the people could go to their homes happy. They need not worry for another year. There would be plenty to eat in the land of Egypt. Surely there was much to be thankful for. When the Td-Legs had finished their thanksgiving, the joyous crowd started back to their homes, laughing and dancing as they went, but the birds did not watch them for long. White-Cat had caught sight of something that made him give a shrill scream of surprise. "They were right, they were right. The waters are rising!"

screamed he. "Look closely, Red-Feathers, and you will see that they are slowly but surely creeping up the banks. If this keeps up at this rate before long the river will have overflowed its banks. There will be water everywhere and then what a feast we shall have.

"Do you know, brother, rather like the name the Two-Legs gave me. Sacred Ibis! Sounds quite distinguished, don't you think? So I am to be worshipped, am I? Fine. I guess these people credit for a lot of sense I always knew that I was a wonderful bird, but I must say I never expected anything like this."

"The two birds were so pleased with their new names that they could think of nothing else. But they nearly came to blows arguing about whose was the prettiest. And all the time the waters were rising higher and higher and higher."

Winner!

The artist friend who advised lovely Dorothy Gray, 264 West 12th St., New York City, to enter two recent beauty contests, is probably saying, "I told you so." She won both of them and a movie engagement in the bargain. Too bad, pictures can't show the loveliness of her skin and the gleaming beauty of her dark brown hair, points which, the judges say, swayed their decisions.

"When I consider how people admire my hair now and how different it was not long ago," says Miss Gray, "I can't help telling about it. Dandruff had nearly ruined my hair. It had gotten stringy, dull, and was falling out. My scalp was terribly uncomfortable. Then a friend got me started on this method of caring for the hair which is all the rage among New York girls. Now, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. Since I have been doing this regularly, all dandruff has disappeared; my scalp has become perfectly comfortable and healthy; my hair has stopped falling out and has become soft, gleamy and pretty."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy to dress and keeps it in place. It stops dandruff. It isn't the oily and doesn't show. At all drug stores, 25c. A delicately fragrant toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl.

THE MEADOWLARKS—"Ouch!"

LANGS PLAY AT SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY; MEET ANCIENT ENEMY

The Lang Chevrolet football team will meet stiff opposition Sunday afternoon when it tackles the Springfield Bulldogs, rivals of Xenia on the gridiron for the last five seasons.

The Bulldogs lost their first game of the season last week when the T. and P. Cleaners of Dayton lived up to their name and walked off with a 7 to 0 victory. The Bulldogs have practically the same team this season that they have had for the past several seasons.

Snyder, Callison, Trobridge, Dingledine and others are with the Reaper City eleven.

The Lang outfit will have to exhibit a smart, fast and rough brand of ball if it expects to beat the Springfield outfit. Playing on foreign fields with a hostile crowd always puts the visiting team at a disadvantage. Nevertheless the Lang outfit is sure that it can defeat the Springfield crew and with Halder, Davis and Houk in the lineup, will present its strongest team.

"Red" Anderson, star end, will probably be shifted to halfback. Anderson can play in the backfield and is fast and just the man to skirt the ends. He can also pass and kick so this makes him a triple threat man, which is a valuable asset. The Lang eleven will practice Thursday evening at the field and all members are asked to be present.

INFANT DIES

Joseph Edwin, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hough, born October 13, died at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Davis, 1516 W. North St., Springfield, Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are former Greene Countyans. Funeral services for the child will be held Thursday at 2 p. m., at the Davis home.

Winner!

The artist friend who advised lovely Dorothy Gray, 204 West 12th St., New York City, to enter two recent beauty contests, is probably saying, "I told you so." She won both of them and a movie engagement into the bargain. Two bad pictures can't show the loveliness of her skin and the gleaming beauty of her dark brown hair, points which, the judges say, swayed their decisions.

"When I consider how people admire my hair now and how different it was not long ago," says Miss Gray, "I can't help telling about it. Dandruff had nearly ruined my hair. It had gotten stringy, dull, and was falling out. My scalp was terribly uncomfortable. Then a friend got me started on this method of caring for the hair which is all the rage among New York girls. Now, I just put a little Dandruft on my brush each time I use it. Since I have been doing this regularly, all dandruff has disappeared; my scalp has become perfectly comfortable and healthy; my hair has stopped falling out and has become soft, gleamy and pretty."

Dandruft quickly removes that oily film from your hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy to dress and keeps it in place. It stops dandruff. It isn't oily and doesn't show. At all drug stores, 35c. A delicately fragrant toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl. —Adv.

LANGS PLAY AT SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY; MEET ANCIENT ENEMY

The Lang Chevrolet football team will meet stiff opposition Sunday afternoon when it tackles the Springfield Bulldogs, rivals of Xenia on the gridiron for the last five seasons, at Springfield.

The Bulldogs lost their first game of the season last week when the T. and P. Cleaners of Dayton lived up to their name and walked off with a 7 to 0 victory. The Bulldogs have practically the same team this season that they have had for the past several seasons. Snyder, Callison, Trobridge, Dingledine and others are with the Reaper City eleven.

The Lang outfit will have to exhibit a smart, fast and rough brand of ball if it expects to beat the Springfield outfit. Playing on foreign fields with a hostile crowd always puts the visiting team at a disadvantage. Nevertheless the Lang outfit is sure that it can defeat the Springfield crew and with Halder, Davis and Houk in the lineup, will present its strongest team.

Joe "Red" Anderson, star end, will probably be shifted to halfback. Anderson can play in the backfield and is fast and just the man to skirt the ends. He can also pass and kick so this makes him a triple threat man, which is a valuable asset. The Lang eleven will practice today.

FESS WILL CLOSE CAMPAIGN IN XENIA

The closing rally of the Republican campaign in Greene County will be held at the Opera House Monday night, November 5, on the eve of the presidential election, when United States Senator Simon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, candidate for re-election will deliver the principal speech.

This announcement was made Wednesday by State Senator L. T. Marshall, chairman of the county Republican Executive Committee, who declared that Senator Fess will follow his usual custom of winding up his personal campaign by addressing citizens of his own county.

Senator Fess will be the only speaker on the program.

CHOIR WILL SING "THE HOLY CITY"

In celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of her leadership of Trinity Choir, Mrs. W. H. McGervey will present members of that organization, assisted by singers from other choirs of the city, in the rendition of "The Holy City," a sacred cantata by Alfred Gaul, next Sunday evening at Trinity Church. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock. The public is most cordially invited to hear this beautiful cantata.

Put the lustrous, protective film of Johnson's Wax on your floors and never again worry about heel marks or worn spots. Wax forms a hard flexible film which almost nothing can get through. It means cleaner floors without scrubbing. And now, with the Johnson Electric Polisher, wax becomes the easiest of all floor finishes to apply.

Don't push or bear down. Just lightly guide it as it skims over the floors by itself. The whirling brush does all the work in amazingly short time.

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Celebrating the Birthday of the Century

JUST a year ago—on October 27, 1927—Hupmobile started automotive circles with the announcement of a new beauty and a new value in moderately priced six and eight cylinder motor cars.

In their first month, Hupmobile Century Sixes and Eights broke all previous records in Hupmobile history. Month after month, new high sales peaks were recorded culminating early in July with totals that surpassed all of the previous year's production.

To signalize the greatest year in Hupmobile's 20 years of fine car manufacture, we announce a special Anniversary Showing of the complete new 1929 line of Century Sixes and Eights at our Showrooms.

Come in and view them at your leisure—then drive any of the forty-two standard and custom-equipped body styles now available. Prove to yourself that Hupmobile with its brilliantly refined 1929 models is still a year ahead in every quality by which motor car values are judged.

Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom on each line. Six of the Century $1345 to $1645. Century Eight, $1825 to $2125. All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

BURY MELL BECK IN POTTER'S FIELD The body of Mell E. Beck, one time prominent hotel manager, who died in poverty at Espey Hospital October 1, now occupies a grave in the Potter's Field section in Woodland Cemetery.

The body had been held in a vault at the cemetery for the last two weeks pending efforts to locate relatives and friends but was removed from the vault Tuesday and buried by J. H. Whitmer, funeral director. The Rev. W. N. Shank conducted brief services at the grave.

Decision to make the burial was arrived at after Mr. Whitmer and other Xenians spent several weeks of futile effort in trying to locate friends of Beck. Telegrams and letters dispatched to various parts of the country failed to furnish traces of relatives of the former hotel manager, who during the years that fortune smiled upon him, had hundreds of friends and acquaintances in the various parts of the country.

HOOPER ALPHABET By Mabel F. Martin

CHAPTER XXXII

Emmy never knew what promises or pleas her mother had made to Grandmother Pentland on that rainy Saturday in March. She never found out just how she had worked the miracle. But, as the last days of the month went by she began to see that she had made her certain promises without any doubt.

"Dan, you'll have to learn to use the side door at your grandmother's house," she would say when the boys came bounding into the hall of their own little yellow house. "She'll never let you track up her fine rugs with your muddy shoes."

On the last Saturday in the month, while she and Emmy were wrapping their dishes in old newspapers and packing them away in barrels, she let another cut out of the bag. "I'll be a child's play-keeper as a few bedrooms in order," she said as if to herself, and then stopped abruptly and flushed.

"What do you mean?" asked Emmy.

"Well—I told your grandmother I'd never let her keep an upstairs maid while I was in the house," she said without meeting Emmy's eyes. She bent over and pretended to be very busy in the bottom of the barrel.

"I'm going to do the mending, too," she ran on cheerfully. "There won't be much, and I used to be able to do Marianna's without any trouble. I'd be ashamed not to do any work around the house, when we're paying your grandmother so little toward the household expenses."

Well, that was fair enough, thought Emmy.

"I hope father will not have any of his 'neuralgia' spells," she said, "after he gets into Grandmother's house."

"I'm sure he won't," Mrs. Milburn answered, without the flicker of an eyelash. "He's been very much better lately."

The Little Yellow House By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. ©1928

They shook on that quite solemn porch watching them. "There goes my pie-crust table," Emmy heard her say; "and that's Emmy's little white bed."

In one corner of the bare and empty sitting room were the few odds and ends that she was going to take with her to Grandmother Pentland's big house; a basket filled with her red geraniums in pots, the Dying Gladiator, Mr. Milburn's blue tobacco jar, and the thermos jug that always stood on his bedside table. He drank great quantities of water—especially after his attacks of neuralgia.

"I've given your doll's tea set to the McMillen children, Emmy," she said. "They saw it and wanted it, and I didn't have the heart to say 'No' to them, poor little things."

I hate the thought of leaving them," Her blue eyes became misty and her face crumpled up as if she were going to cry.

"Mother, I do believe you're unhappy about leaving this horrible little place," Emmy said to her. "You're doing it for me—and it's breaking your heart."

"Not mine!" her mother answered with such staunchness that Emmy believed her. "No," she thought it all over. If we stayed on here, I should be paying rent to Jim Tello, and I don't believe I enjoy that very much. You see, Emmy, I was engaged to marry Jim Tello before I met your father."

Emmy's eyes popped open. "You were?" She could hardly believe it. "Don't you often feel sorry you didn't marry him when you see him sail by in his big car? I'll just bet you do!"

"I shouldn't just bet I don't, Emmy. I should've never have answered a question like that. Of course, I'm sorry. Why should I be sorry when I've got a man like your father?"

Emmy kissed her and started off to work. At the foot of the street she turned for a minute and gave it a long thoughtful look. "I hope I never set foot in you again!" she addressed it, feeling that she was parting with an old enemy.

The Theater

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—At last a member of our reigning stage family is to have a theater. The new Ethel Barrymore play-house will open in November with a piece translated from the Spanish, in which Miss Barrymore will play the role of Sister Gracia, an aristocratic girl who dedicates her life to fallen women and orphans.

The play will be called "The Kingdom of God," and appropriately enough, some people won't be able to get in. A (taboo) list is reported. The unfortunates will be people Miss Barrymore doesn't like.

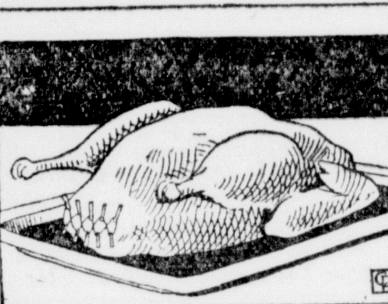

College boys, who heretofore have made up a large percentage of the distinguished guests at Equity Balls, may be unable to crash the gate this year unless disguised as the four Marx Brothers. The Actors' Equity Association has decided to make the tenth annual ball November 10 a party for actors and personal guests only. This laudable effort is expected at least to make such tickets as fall into the hands of speculators too expensive for most of the gay young men equipped to charm with a bottle of gin and a fur coat.

The Marx Brothers, by the way, have finally moved into town from Philadelphia with their "Animal Crackers," so named because the title has nothing to do with their zings on at the 44th Street theater. Their japing and foolishness in "Animal Crackers" takes place before a background of unusual comeliness, a portion of which is supplied by the tidy Miss Jessica Worth.

A third newspaper play is reported headed for New York, "Crusade"—unless they change its name—is planned to let the old subscribers see what makes a country newspaper tick. It has already been tried out in stock in Peekskill. The other two such plays, "Front Page" and "Gentlemen of the Press," expose respectively the reporters of Chicago and New York.

The audience at "Diamond Lil" a few nights ago saw the villain jump violently and grab for his hip pocket instead of his heart when the revolver shot rang out in the third act. The gun—in the hands of Herbert Duffy—jammed, so that instead of aiming for the ceiling he pulled the trigger again while the weapon was pointed at the villain's mid-section. Ernest Anderson, playing the villain, was later supplied with a new cutaway coat by the management.

DR. GALLOWAY WILL SPEAK WHEN POMONA GRANGE HAS MEETING

Dr. W. A. Galloway, whose interest in early Ohio and Greene County history is well known will address Greene County fourth and fifth degree grangers at an open program, Wednesday afternoon, October 31 at 1:30 o'clock at Cedar. This will be an opportunity for every granger in Greene County to hear Dr. Galloway.

He will talk on "Pioneer Times in Ohio," with special reference to interesting events in local history which began in 1778, when Ohio was still a part of the Great North-west Territory.

Early history in what is now Greene County, was full of interesting events, in which well known pioneers took active and leading parts.

Many of these courageous men and women were grangers' ancestors and the address should be of interest to every granger in Greene County.

Jamestown, Caesarcreek and Spring Valley Granges are booked for numbers on the program, with orchestra numbers by Xenia Grange and a one-act playlet by the Cosler Trio.

The business session begins at ten o'clock in the forenoon, including

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapiesin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapiesin." "Pape's Diapiesin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapiesin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapiesin may do as much for you.

It is claimed that the Kimbros are part owners of the premises described in the petition and that the savings company has a mortgage interest. Marcus McCallister is attorney for the plaintiff.

FARMER WANTS HIS SHARE OF PROFITS SENATOR DECLARES

BELLEVILLE, O., Oct. 24.—More equitable distribution of prices paid for farm products is the greatest need of the farmers today, United States Senator Simon D. Fess said here last night at a Republican rally.

"The farmer is not complaining that the price paid for his products is insufficient, but he does feel that he is not getting his share of it," Senator Fess said. "The immediate problem is greater producer control over his products. His need is a seller's market to give him a voice in what he is to receive for his goods, rather than being subjected to the whims of an unregulated and often speculative market, where he is forced to take whatever price the buyer is willing to give."

"To be substantial and effective, the machinery of this control should be farmer-organized, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled, rather than operated by a bureau from Washington. Sound relief will avoid artificial stimulus such as government price fixing or government buying or selling. Such remedies will only defer the day of reckoning. The solution is primarily economic and not political."

"Whatever aid the government may give, the remedy lies largely with the farmer himself, acting in unison with his associates in the control of his products."

"Ninety per cent of the products of the American farm are used in this country. Therefore the farmer is primarily interested in home markets and in a policy of protection for them. He is interested in the maintaining of the present high wage scales which will keep up the present high standards of living and insure a buying power of the public for his products."

Sound relief will avoid artificial stimulus such as government price fixing or government buying or selling. Such remedies will only defer the day of reckoning. The solution is primarily economic and not political.

"Whatever aid the government may give, the remedy lies largely with the farmer himself, acting in union with his associates in the control of his products.

"Ninety per cent of the products of the American farm are used in this country. Therefore the farmer is primarily interested in home markets and in a policy of protection for them. He is interested in the maintaining of the present high wage scales which will keep up the present high standards of living and insure a buying power of the public for his products."

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapepsin may do as much for you.

ELDRED OIL
LUBRICATES ALL THE TIME

ELDRED MOTOR OILS retain their body and lubricating qualities when other oils have "gone thin," and lost their lubricating ability.

This is because ELDRED OILS are refined exclusively from Bradford Amber, premium crude of the Pennsylvania Field.

The new motors with high compression, and higher speed, require oils of this quality in order that they may deliver the super-performance of which they are capable.

When you fill the crank case with ELDRED you give your motor the best.
